VOTER RESOURCE GUIDE

Voting Resources.

Challenges for Delaware voting:

It's time to do the deed. Not that deed, stop being nasty. It's time to vote. It's time to go to the polls and cast that ballot. Know that you're killing it by getting to your own polling place and making your voice heard by voting. To go from good to great would be if you encouraged your neighbors, friends, family, co-workers, etc. to do the same, assuming they're eligible to vote. To go from great to spectacular, arrive with five people at the polling place. However you plan to get there, take the fam along with you!

After you all have cast your votes, CELEBRATE! Go to a brunch, catch a movie, or take a nap. Regardless, understand that you've exercised your civic duty and maybe enabled others to do the same. They not like us! Congratulations you connoisseur of the civic arts, you maximized and materialized real MOVE-ment!

If you need assistance in voting or encouraging those around you to do so too, please see the below resources! This list is by no means exhaustive, it's only what we know about — but rest assured these groups and initiatives are there for you leading up to and on the big day.

Conclusion.

We know this may feel overwhelming, and honestly at times it can be. We understand if you feel frustrated with the world of politics, and hold the belief that nothing will truly make a difference. Feeling this way is valid. But the reality is, nothing will really change if we all decide to not be civically engaged. Civil rights have never been won by giving up. As we talked about in earlier sections, so much effort has been deployed to disenfranchise the people's vote. This shows that voting has power. Not only does your vote have power, but the power of your voice is amplified when you stay informed, show up, and connect with your elected officials. Delaware is a small state which at times can lead to some sticky personal situations, ifykyk, lol. It also means there are boundless opportunities to make a meaningful difference in your community.

Remember, the only one who can take away all your power is you!
